

Court Actions Will Test Tax Publicity Law

William J. Juneau, Milwaukee-
co, Asks Review of Supreme Court Decision

SELECT SEVERAL CASES

Names of Newspapers Withheld but at Least One Indictment Expected Soon

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — The right of newspapers to publish income tax returns made public under the revenue act of 1924 is to be determined through court action in a number of cases
covering various aspects of the question. Although the names of newspapers involved and other specific information has been withheld at the department of justice, indications are that in at least one of the cases an indictment is expected this week or early next week.

United States attorneys have been instructed by Attorney General Stone to institute grand jury proceedings in
"six of seven cases" selected from evidence submitted to him at his request from all parts of the country. The department will exercise supervisory direction over the cases, and Mr. Stone hopes to have them expedited so the conflicting provisions of the law may be clarified as quickly as possible.

Although it has been suggested that congress may have time to make its purpose clear before any of the cases can be brought before the supreme court, attention was directed Wednesday to another proceeding already before the court, which might have considerable bearing on the validity of statutes permitting publication or inspection of income tax returns. In the latter action William J. Juneau of Milwaukee, Wis., Tuesday asked for a review of a decision by the supreme court of that state dismissing an injunction he had obtained restraining tax officials from making public his returns under an act of the legislature in 1923. He seeks to challenge the state law in the federal court on the ground that it denies him of rights under the constitution.

PLAN TO ADVOCATE TIGHTER DRY LAWS

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — The special senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau was called in executive session Wednesday to receive a report by Earl J. Davis, its counsel, on the findings of 15 investigators who have been compiling information for the committee during the summer recess of congress.

Mr. Davis' report contains evidence concerning the prohibition unit and enforcement of the tax law. Particular attention has been paid to the system of issuing industrial alcohol permits and to the collection of income taxes. If the evidence justifies the committee plans to recommend legislation to revise the tax law and
to tighten prohibition enforcement,
especially in regard to alcohol permits.

CIVIL SERVICE OFFICIAL IS DISMISSED FROM POST

Madison — W. H. Luehr, chief deputy examiner of the state civil service commission, has been dismissed from state service. It became known Wednesday.

It became known several days ago
that Luehr would be transferred from state service or transferred to another department. He is said to have opposed the latter plan. Luehr has been with the commission as chief assistant for three years.

HANGAR, PLANES, REPAIRS ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Muskogee, Okla. — Fire destroyed
the main hangar, four planes and a big stock of United States Army airplane repairs at Huth Flying field here shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Origin of the blaze is undetermined.

A READY MAID APPEARED

When you have work for a maid and want the type that seems made for the work, just do
as one of our Post-Crescent
readers did.
Last week she shovled a "Help Wanted" ad into The Post-Crescent classified columns. She asked for a maid, and got one who was willing and ready to assume the duties designated in the same day her ad appeared.
Of course she had an opportunity to select from the twenty applicants. Post-Crescent
ads always make position seekers
act that way.
When YOU want a ready maid,
the calling of 543 is readily
made.
Just do it—and ask for an ad-
taker.

Forest Full Of Illegally Killed Does

Chippewa Falls—While no arrests
have been made in the county, returning hunters tell stories of hundreds of illegally slain animals lying dead
in the woods. The hunters who killed
the animals without first determining whether or not they were bucks more than one year old for the most part made no effort to bring the animals in although it is said that some smuggling is going on. One hunter is said to have admitted that he shot
six deer before he killed one that came within the law.

Cheboygan, Mich.—More than 50
deer hunters have been arrested by game wardens during the eight days since the deer season opened. It was reported Wednesday. The offenders were apprehended at St. Ignace where they boarded the ferry to cross from the upper to the lower Michigan peninsula.

All sorts of tricks have been reported to by hunters to get illegal
kills past, some game wardens aver.
Some hunters cutting heads off does,
while others have gone so far as to sew the head of a buck onto a doe
in hope that the antlers will cause less rigid inspection of the kill. The law permits each hunter to kill one buck deer during the season.

PREDICT END OF OIL SUIT FEB. 1

Special Counsel Named by Coolidge Finds Fraud Was Committed

By Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif.—A decision in the government's suit to cancel Elk Hills naval oil leases and contracts
held by E. L. Doherty's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co., may be expected before Feb. 1, 1925, according to an announcement by Judge Paul J. McCormick, when trial of the case was concluded in federal court
here Tuesday.

In summing up the government's cases, Owen J. Roberts, special counsel appointed by President Coolidge, declared that "we have averted and still insist: 'First, that there was and has been a conspiracy between Albert B.
Fall, secretary of the interior in 1921,
and Edward L. Doherty, that the $100,000 loan contained every element of a bribe. Third, that a fraud was worked on the United States by what was done.'"

SEEK SUSPECTS IN MURDER MYSTERY

Detroit, Mich. — Those persons who spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Anna Lee Bowers are now being sought
by police in connection with the death
of the woman, whose body was found in her apartment here early Monday morning. Lee C. Hawkins, arrested in connection with the death, who admitted having lived with the woman intentionally, according to police, was able, officers said, to prove his alibi.
The body will be sent to Buffalo.

Fear Loss of Life In Los Angeles Feud

By Associated Press
Independence, Inyo-co, Calif.—Friends between two types of passive resistance Wednesday threatened, according to Inyo-co authorities, to snap
the tension of a situation created south of here last Sunday in the seizure
of the Los Angeles aqueduct by Owens valley ranchers, and to plunge this part of California in civil war.
Since the approximately 100 ranchers took over the Alabama gates of the aqueduct and diverted Los Angeles' supply of water supply into Owens lake, they have remained at the spillway quietly, unarmed, and waiting for armed forces to be sent against them. But the city has refused to attempt forcible ejection of the raiders and has contended it self with peaceful court action to recover its property.
The governor of California Monday
denied the request of Sheriff Charles Collins for state troops, and since then has not changed his policy of non-intervention. Accordingly the ranchers

ERIN MOURNS SUDDEN DEATH OF CARDINAL

Roman Catholic Primate's Passing Causes Shock Throughout Ireland

By Associated Press
Belfast — Cardinal Logue, primate
of Ireland, is dead.
Death occurred at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

There had been no previous intimation of the cardinal's illness and the news of his demise caused a great shock throughout Ireland. The primate died at his residence "Ara Coeli,"
in Armagh.

Cardinal Logue celebrated his golden jubilee as a priest on Dec. 21, 1916, on which occasion Pope Benedict XV honored him with a papal letter imparting the papal benediction, together with the faculty of conferring the papal blessing on all
who attended the sacred celebration
of the jubilee.

Cardinal Logue was known as the
"Grand Old Man" of the Roman Catholic church in Ireland. He had a tiny frame but unbounded courage,
of which he frequently had need during the period of strife in Ireland.

One thing for which he was noted
was his severe condemnation of modern dress. Ireland used to be proud of her women but the dress, or want
of dress, of women in the present day
is a scandal, he declared at one time.
"There seems to be rivalry among them as to how little dress they can wear."

Cardinal Logue expressed satisfaction upon the conclusion of the Anglo-Irish treaty in 1921, declaring
he thought the settlement "terms
just." He said at that time, and repeated the sentiment on other occasions:
"I should like to see unity and no
division of the country so that all could pull together for the good of Ireland. I should like to see the people of Ireland living in peace and charity with each other."

HERRIOT ADHERES TO POINCARÉ VIEW

French Premier Will Stick to Same Attitude Regarding
Foreign Debts

By Associated Press
Paris—Premier Herriot's attitude
on the war debts of France will be the same as that of Poincaré when he was premier, according to information from official circles Wednesday.
If the question comes up at the conference of finance ministers next month, the French delegate will declare France intends to deal with the debts as a business matter without any appeal to sentiment and will say that France cannot consent to be treated on a basis different from Germany.

The French debts, it will be held,
must be reduced in the same proportion as the French claims.

BRITISH OFFICIAL IN EGYPT SHOT IN ATTACK

By Associated Press
Cairo—Two bombs, one of which exploded, were thrown at Major General Sir Lee Stack, commander of the Egyptian Army, while driving from the ministry of war Wednesday.
General Stack was also attacked
with revolver shots and badly
wounded in the stomach. He was removed to a hospital.
The medical bulletin states that
General Stack's condition is serious.
He is suffering from shock and has three bullet wounds in the stomach,
hand and foot, respectively.

Cardinal Logue, primate of the Roman Catholic church in Ireland, died
at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.
His death came without previous in-imation and caused a great shock
throughout the country.

TITUS RESIGNS FROM POSITION GIVEN BY BLAINE

Fond du Lac Congressman
Quits Board of University
Visitors

Madison—Senator W. A. Titus of Fond du Lac Wednesday resigned as a member of the board of visitors of the University of Wisconsin. The following is an extract from the letter
of resignation which Senator Titus has mailed Governor Blaine, which was made public here Wednesday.

"I hand you herewith my resignation as member of the board of visitors of the University of Wisconsin,
a position to which I was twice appointed by Governor McGovern, once
by Governor Phillips and reappointed
by you in 1922.

"While the office is of minor importance and carries neither salary
nor pension compensation, I seriously question the propriety, especially in view of recent developments of any member of the legislature holding any office at the hands of the executive while still continuing as a member of the lawmaking body of the state.

The questionable policy of the system was further emphasized a short time ago by a letter which I received from one of your most devoted partisans in the state senate.
"In this letter he charged that I had accepted an office from the governor and then failed to heed executive instructions in my legislative work. As this appointment to the board of visitors is the only one resulting from you, I assume this is what he referred to and so wrote him
in reply.

"I received this minor appointment
from you without any solicitation
from the part of either myself or my friends, and in accepting it I supposed that service and not obligation
was implied."

NELSON DENIES END OF INDEPENDENTS

Madison—That repudiation of statements attributed to him in dispatches from Washington that the third party movement will be dropped, is contained in a statement
by Congressman John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, National chairman of La Follette-Wheeler campaign, to the Capital Times Wednesday.

"The foundations of a new Progressive political party were laid in the election two weeks ago," Congressman Nelson said. While conceding that the popular and electoral votes
had fallen short of expectations, Mr.
Nelson stated that outside of the southern states, the Progressives
fared better than the Democratic party
and established themselves as the "only constructive party of opposition to reactionary government," as represented by the Republicans.

BALDWIN WOULD DISCUSS DISARMAMENT PROTOCOL

By Associated Press
London.—It is stated in authoritative circles that the British government's request that the Geneva protocol on security and disarmament be not discussed at the coming meeting
in Rome of the league of nations council does not mean that Great Britain desires to scrap the protocol but that the nation is simply in line with Premier Baldwin's desire to discuss the matter thoroughly with his cabinet and the dominions.

PRINCE REGENT GREETED U. S. ENVOY TO NIPPON

Tokio—The prince regent Wednesday received Edgar A. Baneroff, United States ambassador to Japan, who arrived in Tokyo on Monday. After Ambassador Baneroff presented his credentials the prince regent granted
an audience to the entire embassy
staff while the empress met the wives
of members of Baneroff's staff.

NATION FACES WOOD FAMINE, COOLIDGE SAYS

President Urges Specific Program of Timber Saving in Opening Conclave

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — President Coolidge Wednesday asked for a specific program of timber saving in opening
the national conference on utilization of forest products.

The nation faces timber exhaustion,
the president warned, and the situation must be met, he insisted, by diminishing waste and increasing the supply.

The resources of the nation are a trust, Mr. Coolidge declared, subject to use by the present generation administered free of monopolies and from those "who will unwisely permit them to be dissipated." But there must be restoration as well as use.
About 750,000,000 cubic ft of timber is in this country. Counted out and against this supply there is an annual drain of 25,000,000 cubic feet while the annual timber growth is only six billion feet. In the face of this situation, he declared, the nation must turn to the problem of growing wood
from the soil like any other crop.

"To bridge this fatal gap between cut and growth, however," Mr. Coolidge said, "sufficient action has not yet been taken and the country must consequently adjust itself immediately
to a reduced per capita consumption."
The president saw hopeful signs in federal legislation enacted in the Clarke-McNary bill passed at the last session of congress making provision for fire protection and restoration,
and in the Weeks law authorizing government purchase of numerous forest tracts. These must be supported he declared, by a policy which will "in the hands of private individuals and of public officers lead to the further advancement of this already well-defined and securely adopted principle."

FARM BOOM MAY POSTPONE PLANS

Early Action by Agricultural Commission Improbable,
Is Forecast

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Early action at the coming short session of congress
on farm relief legislation appeared improbable Wednesday in view of the announcement by farm bloc leaders that agricultural depression has been somewhat relieved and the decision of the agricultural commission named by President Coolidge to investigate and recommend steps for stabilization of the industry, to recess, after Wednesday's session for three or four weeks.

Representative Tincher, Republican
Kansas, spokesman for the farm bloc, announced Tuesday after a conference with Senator Curtis, Republican of the same state, that no
effort would be made to press farm legislation at the impending session
before the president's commission reports. In the opinion of farm bloc members, he explained, agriculture
especially in a large section of the west has been given sufficient stimulus to tide the farmer over for the time being.

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Freight rates
on citrus and deciduous fruits, candles, melons, dried fruits, coffee,

adier General Charles G. Dawes, vice pres-

Special District Meetings Will Be Held To Vote On School Program

SUBMIT TWO QUESTIONS
Adoption of Plan and Election
of Board Will Be Up to School Electors

The four school districts of Appleton will decide on Friday, Nov. 28,
whether Appleton is to adopt a union
system for administration of its schools or whether it is to continue
under the present antiquated, inadequate district system now in effect.
Clerks of the four district boards,
at a meeting—Columbus school district, Tuesday evening, made preparations for calling the special meetings on Nov. 28, and submitting the question to the people. Petitions for calling the special meeting were circulated on Tuesday and filed
Wednesday morning.

At the same time the voters will determine whether the board of education, which will operate the union system, is to be elected or appointed. All four districts must vote for the union
plan before it can be adopted.
These questions will be submitted to
the voters:
Shall the city school plan be adopted?
Shall the board of education be elected?

The district meetings will be held
in the following schools:
First district—First ward school.
Second district—Columbus school.
Third district—Washington school.
Fourth district—Fourth ward school.
MEET AT 2 P. M.

The special meetings of each district will be held at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 28. The meeting will be called in the usual form and election and clerk will be selected. As an additional special meeting, then
a resolution will be submitted to open the polls at 2 o'clock and keep them
open until probably 8:30 in the evening so that everyone will have an opportunity to vote.

If the union school plan is adopted
it probably will go into effect on July
1. This would give the members time to familiarize themselves with the work of the schools prior to the opening of the term in 1925.
Decision to submit the question to the electors of the four districts was reached at a meeting of the board of education.

Aged Woman Tells of French
Bateaux on Green Bay in Early Days

By Associated Press
Menominee, Mich.—Deposition in the suit brought by Michigan involving the boundary line extending from Lake Superior to Lake Michigan, between this state and Wisconsin was discontinued here Wednesday awaiting the arrival of United States Commissioner Thomas Elder. Upon his arrival the hearing will be resumed.
In Madison, probably on Friday, according to A. J. Sawyer, Michigan

Owing to the absence of Commis-

perior court judge, who is presiding in the Wisconsin-Minnesota boundary case
several years ago, when land near

The testimony centered around the childhood experiences related by Mrs.

old Menominee Indian. All her life
she said, she had lived on the shore
of Green Bay, and that from her home
she often saw many fleets of French sailing ships. She said she had seen the French traders sail inside the passage for Green Bay, a half mile from the Door co shore. Her testimony was augmented by that of her son Dave, who told how his early sailing days had been in company
with his grandfather, Kewskum, who

MAYOR FIRES STARTING GUN IN CITIES RACE

Series of Public Meetings Will Speed City into State Contest for $1,000 Prize

Appleton will fire the starting gun in its race for the $1,000 prize in the Wisconsin better cities contest with a meeting of its citizens at 7:30 Thursday evening in the auditorium of the vocational school. An army of 125 civic, social and welfare leaders is enlisted in helping make the city so ideal within the next six months that it will be scored as the best place of residence in Wisconsin. The contest is under auspices of Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will start off the contestants with the tap of his gavel at this meeting. He is chairman of the Appleton general committee, made up of representatives of all organizations which are interested in the welfare and upbuilding of the city. He wants the public to turn out to these meetings and learn how they can help with the coveted prize. Music will be furnished by Appleton Womans club and Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Conferences will continue Friday and Saturday, with one meeting devoted to each of the nine departments in which the contest is divided. There is a tenth department, which has no working schedule as yet. Lunches will be held for some of the groups and these are open to the public. The only requirement is that reservations for the dinners be made at the chamber of commerce office. Aubrey Williams, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, will be here for the entire time assisting in instructing the various groups.

STARTS THURSDAY
Mr. Williams will give a general outline of the contest after Mayor Goodland opens the meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening. His address will be followed by the social welfare conference. L. A. Boettiger, professor of sociology at Lawrence college, will give a preliminary report of the social work already done here. An address by Dr. D. O. Kinsman, Lawrence college, follows on Appleton and the Better Cities contest. He will tell how important it is that the people give the contest all the support they can.

The reason Mayor Goodland seeks the interest of the general public is that everything that is done to give Appleton the highest score will mean the carrying out of some aim that has been cherished for this city. Many things in contemplation now will be completed if proper support is forthcoming. Such issues as garbage disposal system, improvement of sewage service, improvement of parks and numerous others are bound to materialize through the contest work, he believes. All people who would like to work on any of the ten committees are asked to give their names to Hugh G. Corbett, contest secretary at the chamber of commerce office.

Committees are assigned definite departments in which to work, and persons in each group likewise, entrusted with one task each. Usually those best qualified for any particular work are assigned accordingly on the committee.

3 PAY STATIONS ESTABLISHED FOR RED CROSS DRIVE

Public Is Asked to Deposit Dollars to Keep Work in State Going

Three places have been designated as pay stations for Red Cross memberships in the 1925 roll call now in progress. These are the chamber of commerce, Y. M. C. A. and Appleton Womans club.

Funds are needed for Red Cross work this year just as in the past and all who will agree to give the usual fee of one dollar are asked to call at one of these places to pay.

No better demonstration of the need of support for the Red Cross has been suggested by the local chapter than the relief work done in northern and western Wisconsin this summer when tornadoes left communities destitute. The Red Cross was on the scene right after the storms, ready to give medical and financial aid. This same calamity might happen here, it is said, and people then would be glad the Red Cross had been maintained.

Outagamie-do must continue to maintain a large membership if it is to keep its charter in the American Red Cross, according to word from headquarters. More than $40,000 is used in this state in soldier hospitals and for relief of disabled men but about half of the money must come from other states. The aim this year is to make Wisconsin support its own work.

The roll call began Armistice day and continues until Thanksgiving. Mrs. James A. Wood is the local chairman.

LOTS OF DEER CARRIED THRU CITY BY HUNTERS

Hunters are having good luck in bringing down deer in the north woods, judging from the number of cars that pass through Appleton with deer strapped to the running board. Tuesday night a local garage sheltered five cars that had deer strapped to them. They were owned by hunters who passed through the city. A number of local men have been successful in bringing down deer on their hunting expeditions.

Werrenrath Likes To Pick His Own Songs-- And Sit In Poker Game

Technically it wasn't an interview that was finally obtained from Ted Werrenrath back "stage" at Lawrence Memorial chapel after his concert Tuesday night. There was little chance of an interview with a crowd of souvenir hunters advancing on the baritone with programs to be visited with his signature. He was more than goodnatured in complying with their requests—as generous with his signatures as he had been with energy during the concert. Finally after the crowd had cleared away and there was semi-privacy, some sort of conversation resulted—a one-sided conversation with Mr. Werrenrath doing most of the talking. He is an easy, charming talker, and the bits of information gleaned were informal. The man himself is democratically informal—he'd have to be to express a liking for poker and keep pace with current college slang, as he did.

About the first thing he did was to apologize for his singing. "It was a very nice audience, and I should have liked to be in better form, but you can't give your best after riding all night and day in a hot Pullman. I had a nice room at the hotel, but that was hot, too, so I've been feeling sleepy all around the concert."

This year is the first time Mr. Werrenrath has been following his own wishes in choosing the songs he will sing. Heretofore he has followed the wishes of the committee in charge of the concert. "I guess the audience expects you to be some sort of prima donna and be a bit 'high hat' anyway, and I feel my singing is ten times better now that I'm singing what I like."

Trained in the German and Norse school of singing, Mr. Werrenrath is naturally better acquainted with modern songs of those countries. But he has kept pace with the moderns in all countries. He mentioned the Grecian songs of Maurice Ravel, a contemporary French composer as introducing something entirely new in composition for voice. "But his Grecian songs are too difficult for me, it requires Frenchman to sing them. 'Salute' is the only Ravel song in my repertoire."

Lighting a cigaret with the comment that as he wasn't a student he guessed they couldn't do anything to him if he smoked, Mr. Werrenrath went on to mention a poker game in which he and a former governor of Kentucky were involved recently in Chicago the governor coming out at the short end. "The governor turned up at my concert the next night. He had bought two seats, and was going to see if he could sing as well as I could play poker."

HANDCRAFT GIRLS ENJOY WORK AT CLUBROOMS

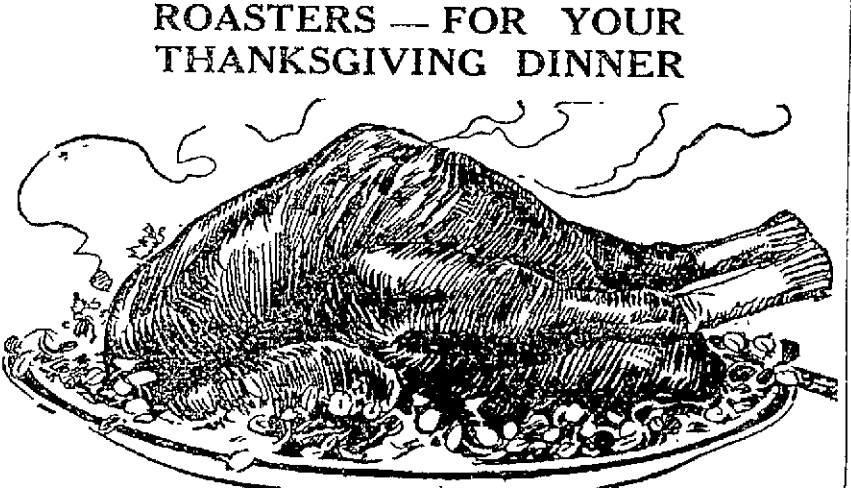

Decorating candles and vases prove a fascinating pastime to the girls in the handicraft class of Appleton Womans club, for they stayed long past the regular hour for dismissal Tuesday night in order to finish the articles they were working on. FOREIGN POLICY

It is generally taken for granted that there will be certain modifications of foreign policy under the new Coolidge administration. When Mr. Coolidge succeeded to the presidency he announced that he would endeavor to carry out, as he understood them, the purposes of his predecessor. This he has consistently done, both in domestic and international affairs. It is not improbable that at times he has followed a course not strictly in accord with his personal views. We believe this is particularly true with reference to foreign policy. Mr. Harding, whether from his own convictions or at the behest of politicians, pronounced himself in favor of a policy of isolation. This was in the campaign. After his election he changed his attitude somewhat, first to send unofficial observers to European councils and later to an indorsement of the Permanent Court of International Justice. Mr. Coolidge walked in the same path. He indorsed the court and sent semi-official representatives to the various allied and other conferences.

There is reason to believe that this restricted cooperation in Europe was not altogether satisfactory to Mr. Hughes as secretary of state, nor to his chief. This is evidenced by the fact that the last appointments, namely to the London conference on the Dawes proposal, were official. We think Mr. Coolidge would prefer to regard the work of General Dawes and his associates and the reparations settlement as a contribution of the American government rather than as the volunteer work of individuals. We think Mr. Hughes prefers to work as man to man and nation to nation with Europe in whatever constructive measures we undertake. We believe the administration would prefer to deal officially than unofficially with other nations. It is a senseless idea after all, to pretend to have unofficial dealings with other nations.

We expect, therefore, to see the new administration assume larger and more direct responsibilities in world affairs, and to extend its assistance to the recovery of Europe in every legitimate way. We also expect it to use its official influence for the promotion of peace. It is perhaps too much to expect even limited membership in the League of Nations, but undoubtedly we shall participate in the world court and will join the other nations in any concrete and practical plan which may be advanced for the outlawing of war. Certainly we shall attend conferences organized to this end.

On the whole, we may expect a broader foreign policy under the Coolidge than we had under the Harding administration. This assumption, however, is based on the retention of Mr. Hughes as secretary of state or of some other man of equally large international vision. Differences are likely to develop in the administration on the proposal to recognize Russia, but we believe the judgment of the president, as of the secretary, is opposed to recognition, and that their views are likely to prevail, as they should.

FOOTBALL FOR VOTES

Truly marvelous are the wonders of inside statesmanship by which grave public questions are decided in the capitol of the world's greatest nation. A Chicago dispatch gives forth the following amazing information:

Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois has held a formal conference with Brig. Gen. Dennis B. Nolan, chief of staff of the army and acting secretary of war, informing him that the army-navy game of football game between the picked teams of the two services must be held next year, not in the east, but in Chicago, for the following due and sufficient reasons of state:

1. A move is on foot to reduce the standing army of the United States below its present strength of 119,000 men. Bringing the army and navy game west will improve the disposition of western congressmen toward the army. At present they are said to be for cutting it.

2. Unless the game is secured for Chicago, middle western congressmen will "bring about a strenuous battle on the floor of the house to lop off some West Point appropriations."

Surely no one needs fear for the safety of the nation so long as the army and navy have two good football teams to go out and keep the votes in line. The only legitimate cause for apprehension is that one team may be better than the other, and that congress as the years come and go may acquire the habit of voting appropriations on the basis of comparative scores.

ADOPT THE UNION SYSTEM

Agitation for a union system of schools for Appleton, which has been going on for several years, will come to a head on Friday, Nov. 28, when electors in the four school districts of the city will determine whether the city plan shall be adopted. Ever since this matter has been under consideration there have been many reasons presented why the district system in vogue here should be discarded for the more modern and more efficient union plan but at no time has the necessity for a change been as urgent as it is at present. The time has come when Appleton must modernize its school administration. It cannot longer operate under the present plan without extreme wastefulness and inefficiency.

Under the best system possible, the administration of a school system of the magnitude of the one in Appleton is a complex problem. Under an inadequate, antiquated plan it is well nigh impossible. The four district plan is inadequate and antiquated. It is a relic of other ages. Almost every city and town of consequence in the United States has long since discarded it because it was inefficient and wasteful.

Four separate districts, each independent of the other, could not possibly bring about a cooperation in education that is found in cities where all the schools are under one head. Concerted action is difficult, sectional considerations are bound to be the guiding principles in any system where sections are recognized. The union school system does not recognize wards or districts, its limits are the boundaries of the city and cooperation for best results in all the schools is the natural result.

Administration of the high school and the junior high schools, under the present district system, is by still another board, independent of the other four. The only connection between the high school board and the district boards is that two members of each district board are members of the high school board. Why the high school and the grade schools and the grade schools of each district should have separate boards is hardly conceivable.

It will be most difficult to find reasons, except those based on sectional feeling, for retaining the present complex, ancient system when an efficient plan can be adopted without confusion, without expense and without disturbance. If efficiency in the conduct of our schools is sought, the way is open to the electors. If they wish to give the maximum amount of education to their children at a minimum of expense, they should vote for the union plan. This progressive step should by all means be taken. The opportunity to make the big stride is on Nov. 28.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

HOME WORK.

THERE is plenty to do, when you're working to do, and you're spending your time around the house. Such terrible home work as this of course are thought of, of course, by your wife. You'd much rather rest, but you're quite out-guessed as the Muses asks favors from. Mind trouble she asks; many things need repairs, and she figures that's what you are for.

The old vacuum cleaner has never acted properly. It hasn't been oiled for a week. The carpet is shagging, it likely needs tacking. The spot in the tub's sprung a leak.

It's practically certain the dining room chair has busted a spring that was in it. You're springing around as new trouble is found and each kept on the jump every minute.

When all things are mended and working is ended, the clock in the house hangs off 10. You lie for the day, and you know, the next day, you can fix them all over again.

WHAT IS AN ETHIC BETWEEN FRIENDS
And your professional ethics allow you to tell me about sinuses and sinus infection? asks a reader who apparently does not know what ethics means. As this happens often I should like to tell here just what professional ethics allows me to tell about sinuses or any other anatomical structure, about sinuses or any other disease. Professional or medical ethics allows me to tell just as little or as much about such things as may be best for the health of those to whom I tell it.

No rule or principle of professional conduct can embarrass or hamper a physician in any course he may take in the endeavor to inform or instruct the public upon any matter of health. Indeed, the written code of medical ethics specifies that very thing as one of the duties of physicians. The question of motives arises here. Of course the motive must be altruistic, although there is a way in which physicians may actually advertise their wares—such as health examinations and advice—if they wish to seek patronage in that way, namely, by incorporating as an institute or something of the kind and marketing their services. This is not ethical or fair to the general profession—since all doctors can't incorporate and drum up business like that—but it is done, and the organized medical profession seems to have tacit approval to the scheme.

As already implied, there is a formal written code called Principles of Medical Ethics, the first chapter of which defines "Duties of Physicians to their Patients," the second chapter "Duties of Physicians to Each Other and to the Profession at Large," and the third chapter "The Duties of the Profession to the Public." Every "duty" designed in the Principles of Medical Ethics is merely a matter of honor and the golden rule. As I say, if a physician's motive is right he can scarcely do anything which is not ethical.

Now this sinus and sinusitis or sinus infection business, I have tried it out, telling about that, and I have found that I wasn't doing good at all, for a great many readers who read what I had to say immediately tried on the few symptoms I had inadvertently mentioned and concluded that I had "hit their cases." That is not my aim at all, and this experience has contributed toward the conviction I have arrived at, namely, that it is rarely ever justifiable to give detailed descriptions of diseases to a lay audience. And so, you may have noticed, we handle diseases and symptoms very gingerly in this little journal of the ways of health. If anybody's "case" is ever hit here it is unintentional. I assure you, and I learn of such accidents with the greatest chagrin and regret. Of course if one were a healer looking for business it would be different.

So when a correspondent asks "What can you tell me about a fill in the name of the disease?" I read over sections 1, 2 and 3 of chapters III of the Principles of Medical Ethics and answer mournfully but truthfully "Not a thing." Then dropping the postage stamp in the conservation cabinet and the addressed envelope in the automatic chucker, I take up the next letter, eager to see whether anybody seeks information about health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hay Fever Dope.

A remedy for hay fever was recommended to me by a druggist. I find it "dams up" the excessive weeping. I indulge in, but if I stop taking the remedy the trouble seems all the worse. The label says that each capsule contains one grain of acetophenidin. What is that? Is it safe to take right along? (Mrs. G. B. R.)

Answer.—Acetophenidin is a chemical name for a coal tar derivative more commonly known as phenacetin—a pain killer, nerve depressant, blood destroyer, heart weakener. "Vicous dope to take" for hay fever. I should say.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

Wednesday, Nov. 22, 1899.

Mrs. J. E. Harriman died at noon that day at the home of her son F. W. Harriman. She had been ill about eight weeks.

Nick Stark was elected superintendent of the county workhouse at the meeting of the county board that evening. There were four applicants for the position. John F. Pingle was elected trustee of the county insane asylum. Sheriff Wilson offered to accept a salary of $5,000 a year in lieu of fees and the matter was laid over for a later meeting.

Burglars entered the store of John Versteegen and carried away about $150 worth of razors and knives. There was no clew.

H. D. Ryan, representing the Hackworth Construction Co. and Sager and Beske, mason contractors on the city hall and library building, commenced suit against the city for judgment on city orders for the work that had been done. The Hackworth company asked $7,850 and Sager and Beske, $3,400.

Miss Julia Walsh and Michael Powers were married at St. Mary church that morning. The attendants were Miss Kitty Walsh and George McGilgan. The couple were to live on Franklin-st.

The marriage of Miss Josephine Perro and Hector Hays occurred that morning at St. Mary church.

NOVEMBER
November! So dark and repellent—Why weep when the summer is gone, As so often thou dost? Put I cannot blame thee, For very few love thee—As a treadmill they need thee, he thinks these effects are the highest expression of beauty which he can assume.

---ALICE LEWIS.

That's right, be sure to remind us of it. Now take your place beside the postmaster and the Christmas holiday merchants. Next! Is Santa Claus anywhere in shooting distance?

They say that Santa Claus has no equal for preying on folk's purses. That's a mark for somebody to shoot at.

Speaking of shooting matches, what's the use of buying a hunting knife, with all these Thanksgiving "poultry fairs" going on in the country.

GONE—ANOTHER CAUTIOUS BATTLER

"He died," wrote Dr. Frank Crane of a great American business leader, "fighting as he had lived, holding his wife's hand."

In our day they were not called "poultry fairs." They were called duck and turkey raffles until the ordinance required a change in name.

Ducks, according to the poultry raiser, have been known to eat bees. That probably accounts for those that became wild ducks.

We once saw a bumble bee besieging a small boy's head, and boy, you should have seen the wild ducks—he made.

TODAY'S LANGUAGE LESSON

Correct this sentence: "I positively will not wear that loud mother," said the Lawrence freshman.

What Menasha motorist has not seen the inscription on a billboard in the Fourth ward: "...made signs before he could talk?"

EVOLUTION

Note the four stages in the evolution of the ritual of the Annapolis club: Fish. Golf. Autos. Radio.

A Maryland congressman who permitted apple juice to harden and become intoxicating has been acquitted by a jury. No action was taken against the apples that yielded the juice or the press that squeezed it out.

ROAD SIGNS

A Wisconsin sign painter suggests the following signs for railroad crossings: Come ahead. You're important. Try our engines. They satisfy. Don't stop. Nobody will miss you. Take a chance. You can get hit by a train only once.

The county board of supervisors is in session, and the chief features of the meetings, as far as the county clerk is concerned, are the eyes and noses.

American Is Won To Art By Awakened Soul

(Lionel Robertson, in Art World Magazine.)

Our average American usually imagines that there is some high priesthood in artistic matters which hands down to the proletariat an artistic dictum, which must be followed. He loves to say, "I am not artistic, but I know what I like."

He will drive out to the municipal golf course in a Ford sedan with a red bathing beauty pasted on the rear window and think he is a free man. As a very extra treat, he will attend musical revues where hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent on satin and tinsel backgrounds, and he thinks these effects are the highest expression of beauty which he can assume.

The reform will have to come within himself; he must learn the art of living and expressing beauty for himself. He must learn to live picturesquely without being absurd. Perhaps later he will be able to see that the beauty of the Russian Chauve Souris, with its simple painted costumes and its gay, simply painted backgrounds, has a subtle charm which is rarely found in the tinsel ladies and tinsel backgrounds of the expensive revues.

When our average American can spend an hour or two at the art institute and finds he can get a thrill from some masterpiece in painting, sculpture or tapestry, he can then know he is beginning to fit into the American artistic background.

When he lives the life of an artist in his home, he may raise children like Selma Peake in Edna Ferber's So Big who saw beauty in the cabbages because the blue green and purplish-green made such a charming contrast.

Building Booms In This State

Wisconsin's building record for the first ten months of 1924 shows a one per cent gain over the same period of last year, according to a report issued by the F. W. Dodge Corp. The total amount of building this year to Nov. 1 is $47,250,000.

During October Wisconsin showed a gain in building projects of 26 per cent over the same month in 1923. During the month $7,278,600 worth of contracts was announced. This includes $4,333,600 for residential buildings, $1,164,500 for industrial buildings and $820,000 for public utilities and works.

A report issued by The Engineering News-Record states that October of this year shows the greatest amount of construction in the month since 1919. The general trend of building construction work is favorable and building costs are unchanged, the report states.

ROLLO

We never tell you where to head in or how to back out!

One of the most maddening things in the world is to have some one stand on the curb and tell you how to back out. Or—even worse—to go into a store to buy a hat and have the salesman try to tell you which hat to head in! In selling Trimble hats, very little salesmanship is needed—we simply produce the sizes—the styles—provide the mirror—give honest advice if you ask for it—but absolutely refrain from trying to boss the job. It's your head—that's how we feel about it—and while we will never allow you to choose the wrong hat—we'll never talk you into it either!

OFFER BIDS FOR
BRIDGE CONTRACT

Scores of Representatives Present as Bids Were Opened Tuesday Evening

Kaukauna—Sealed bids for constructing Kaukauna's new $100,000 bridge were opened at an adjourned meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. Nine contracting firms made bids for the work and the council chamber was full of representatives from various steel, cement and construction companies.

The bids were figured for two separate contracts. Contract No. 1 calls for the construction of all piers and abutments and contract No. 2 provides for the creation of the superstructure, removal of the old bridge and completion of the work ready for traffic.

Warden Allen Co. of Milwaukee, presented the lowest bid with the Wausau Iron Works running close second. The Warden Allen Co. offered to do the work for $142,564 and the Wausau contractors were only slightly more than $6,000 higher. Other bidders were from $12,000 to $20,000 higher.

Not one of the bidders presented a total of his estimate. Each item or specification was figured separately with the result that more than two hours was spent in adding numbers to determine the approximate totals of each bid. The council resolved itself into a committee of the whole to discuss the matter and adjourned without making a report.

The bids of each company were as follows:

C. R. Meyer and sons, Oshkosh—contract No. 1, $39,555; contract No. 2, $113,388; total, $152,943. Wausau Iron Works—contract No. 1, $39,425; contract No. 2, $109,870; total, $149,295. Peppard and Fulton, Chicago—contract No. 1, $41,892; contract No. 2, $116,821; total, $158,713. Lakeside Steel and Bridge Co., North Milwaukee—contract No. 1, no bid; contract No. 2, $121,077. Warden Allen, Milwaukee—contract No. 1, $42,555; contract No. 2, $100,599; total, $143,154. H. S. THRIFT GOES
UP FOUR PER CENT

Kaukauna—The percentage of depositors in the high school jumped to 76 Tuesday morning, 4 per cent higher than last week. A campaign is being inaugurated to increase the percentage each week. It is hoped the school will jump to 90 per cent by next bank day. With the exception of the general increase, there was practically no change in banking conditions in the high school. The same six classes were again 100 per cent thrifty and the thrift banner for this week was again awarded to Miss Genevieve McGowan's English I class.

Bank day results in the junior high school also showed little change. Deposits were as follows: seventh grade "A," 58 per cent; seventh grade "B," 80 per cent; eighth grade "A," 47 per cent; eighth grade "B," 38 per cent. In the high school the total amount deposited was $108.33. J. F. McGowan's east assembly students deposited $30.20 and received first place as far as amount was concerned. Miss Ruth Nemeschek's English II class made a strong bid for honors when 30 per cent of the class turned in $26.35.

H. S. CAGERS GET
START WITH INTER
CLASS TOURNAMENT

Only One Regular From Last Year on Hand to Form Nucleus for Quint

Kaukauna—With enthusiasm still at a high pitch over the success of the 1924 football season, Kaukauna high school is preparing for its basketball season. A great deal of interest is being shown by the students and Coach Smith expects a large squad out for practice.

Just what kind of a team will be turned out is a question since experienced material is a minus quantity. Kuruss Bayer is the only regular from last year's quintet, the rest having been lost by graduation. Coach Smith expects little difficulty, however, in finding a team, since each class has formed a quint and arranged class basketball games. Mr. Smith personally supervises the practice of each class squad and a plan that will be in a position to choose his material.

Monday evening was devoted to practice for the seniors. The juniors had their workout Tuesday afternoon while the sophomores and freshmen will have their chance Wednesday. The tournament will start Thursday and will end Friday evening.

The coach expects to have enough men out to give him an opportunity to pick 25 candidates for the first squad immediately after the tournament. The squad will gradually be cut down and as the candidates fail to measure up to the standard they will be sent to the second squad where they will be trained for next season.

With this season's outlook a big question mark, Coach Smith is endeavoring to build up material for the future although he is not overlooking this year and will do his best to find a winning aggregation.

The bids of each company were as follows:

C. R. Meyer and sons, Oshkosh—contract No. 1, $39,555; contract No. 2, $113,388; total, $152,943. Wausau Iron Works—contract No. 1, $39,425; contract No. 2, $109,870; total, $149,295. Peppard and Fulton, Chicago—contract No. 1, $41,892; contract No. 2, $116,821; total, $158,713. Lakeside Steel and Bridge Co., North Milwaukee—contract No. 1, no bid; contract No. 2, $121,077. Warden Allen, Milwaukee—contract No. 1, $42,555; contract No. 2, $100,599; total, $143,154. H. S. BASKETBALL

Large Part of Student Body Shows Its Interest in This Form of Sport

New London—New London high school's basketball season got under way on Tuesday when those who are trying for the high school caring five put in their first practice of the year at 4 o'clock.

On Monday during the regular assembly in the high school, Supt. R. J. McMahon took inventory of the high school basketball ideas, each student was asked to write his name and age on a slip of paper and to state whether he or she would like to engage in basketball this year. A great number of students, both girls and boys signified their desire to play basketball. Accordingly the following schedule was planned on Tuesday by Mr. McMahon, principal:

Every Monday evening, high school team, (16 men) every Tuesday afternoon, junior high school boys seventh and eighth grades; every Wednesday afternoon, high school girls; second and fourth. Wednesday nights (8 o'clock), high school team (16 men). All Thursday afternoons, high school team (16 men); all Thursday evenings, all high school boys not included on the team.

Supt. McMahon called a meeting Tuesday evening of all boys in the high school, who intended to try out for the team, and about 100 responded. In a short talk he explained his views on basketball. He was enthusiastic and told all candidates what was expected of them. The boys were then taken to K. C. hall, where they conducted their first practice of the season, under the direction of J. J. Polomis who is substituting in the high school until the return of his brother, Dr. T. Polomis who was forced to return to his home in Waukegan during the beginning of the year, due to illness.

J. J. Polomis has coached winning high school basketball teams previous to his engagement at New London. His brother will return directly after Thanksgiving and will then assume his regular duties as coach and mathematics instructor.

The interest in this season's team looks promising due to the fact that there are several veterans in the group.

The basketball schedule for 1924 has now been completed, and contains a total of eleven games. The schedule, completed, now reads:

IF BACK HURTS
BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally By Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ROTARY PRINCIPLES,
SUBJECT OF TALK

New London—The Rotarians held their weekly meeting at Elwood hotel Monday. W. H. Hatten was slated to speak but was out of the city. The Rev. H. P. Freeling spoke on the principles of Rotary and F. L. Zaig gave a short talk. Two of the officials of the American Plywood Corporation from Philadelphia were present and gave their opinion of this section of the country.

Bodah, James Mulroy, George Glasnapp, Edward Cochrane and Gerald Dent, making a total of 12 boys and 8 girls. Only one girl is allowed on each team in the state league, and so only two out of the eight can be chosen. There are two experienced men in the tryout, George Rosentreter, a junior, with two years of experience, and Wilfred Zimmer, also a junior, with one year's experience. He debated two years ago.

Lloyd Jost, a senior with two years' experience, is not in the running again this year.

The 20 candidates will meet some time before Friday and draw lots for their arrangement in spelling, so that everyone will have a fair and square deal. The teachers of the high school faculty will judge the tryouts and on Monday, Nov. 24, Coach Stone will start working with the two teams in preparation for the first debates.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

Now is the Ideal Time to Build More Paved Highways

There is not a single community in the United States that does not need a greater mileage of permanently paved roads.

16,000,000 motor vehicles are now using our highways for business and pleasure. They are packing the paved roads in already congested areas, as well as over-running regions until recently considered remote. And they are pounding to pieces all but permanent roads.

Even though a number of states have made good progress in building Concrete Roads, their present permanently improved mileage is entirely inadequate, as every motorist knows.

Meantime, while the building of permanent highways lags, the production of motor vehicles is increasing the present total at the rate of 4,000,000 a year!

Sooner or later this gap must be closed. Why wait?

Not in a long time have general conditions been so favorable for carrying on such public works as permanent highway building, thus assuring tax payers more for their money.

Now is the ideal time to extend both street and road programs!

COUNTY RAISED 7,000 ACRES OF ALFALFA IN 1924

County Farm Agent Amundson Tells County Board About His Work

Promotion of boys' and girls' clubs and a campaign of education to stimulate alfalfa growing in Outagamie-co were this year's major projects in the work of R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, according to the annual report he submitted to the county board.

The two projects were part of the program mapped out by the county agricultural committee at its meeting on Nov. 16, 1923. The success of the first project was evidenced by the fact that about 150 boys and girls were enrolled in the pig clubs. A pig was bought by each member who kept records of feed, labor and other expenses throughout the season, sold the pig in the fall and made a report of his business when the project was finished.

THEY MADE MONEY

"While the main purpose of these clubs was education and training the young people in a practical farm problem," the county agent reported, "still nearly every member is showing a profit of from $2 to $15. Approximately $125 donated by business concerns is available for premiums to these boys and girls in addition to what they made on their pigs. Most of these boys and girls can give a very illuminating discussion on the care, feeding and cost of raising pigs, and in most cases, their influence is extended to the parents."

The alfalfa acreage of the county increased from 1,700 acres in 1922, according to the assessors' reports, to 7,000 acres this year. One assessor said he saw more alfalfa the first day he was assessing than he did all during the season a year ago.

"In accordance with the alfalfa project," Mr. Amundson read, "alfalfa was talked and argued at all the winter meetings and several meetings arranged specifically for that purpose."

EXPERTS GIVE TALKS

"The best alfalfa growers available were secured for these meetings in addition to local people who had experience with it. This alfalfa propaganda was presented at Seymour, Bear Creek, Freedom, Nichols, Dale, Hortonville and Kaukauna. At these meetings the farmers there signed up to plant this spring over 1,500 acres. This was later carried out in actual practice this spring when inoculation material enough to sow 2,800 acres was distributed among the farmers of Outagamie-co through the county agent's office. This year the assessors report an acreage of 7,000."

"When we seen the dairymen of Outagamie-co in one year spend nearly $400,000 for mill feeds, and realize that alfalfa, if it can be grown, will replace a big share of this, its use begins to assume some importance to the farmer and the business dependent upon him. The actual yield of common hay in this county amounts to only 1.4 tons per acre, while in the last few years alfalfa has produced nearly 8 tons of feed equal to bran from the same amount of land. It requires little stretch of imagination to foresee the time when most of this tremendous feed bill for stuff grown in other states will be largely supplanted by the home products."

In addition to the regular outlined projects, many activities were promoted, some of them with the fullest cooperation of farmers, farmers' organizations, banks and business institutions, he said.

FOUR COW TESTERS

There are now four cow testing associations in the county in which more than 400 farmers are getting consistent records of each cow in their herds. Assistance was given by the county agent to cattle and hog breeders in promoting sales of cows, pure bred bulls and hogs. An exhibit of the best cattle to be obtained in the county was arranged for the Seymour fair.

Last spring the office and a bank procured 20,000 pounds of war explosives for the farmers at a saving of $2,500 to $3,600 over what would have been paid for dynamite.

Surveys for 18 different drainage projects were made, and soil tests were made on 45 different farms. A series of poultry cutting demonstrations was just finished with a total attendance of 600.

HELP CABBAGE GROWERS

The Outagamie County Cabbage Growers association was extended to include 115 members in the vicinity of Appleton. Similar organizations were formed in Black Creek with 80 members and Shiocton with 25 members. The purpose of the associations is to gradually build up a quality of cabbage in this county that is uniform, reliable in the trade and as free from disease as possible. The association grows its own seed at Mt. Vernon, Wash., and distributed 350 pounds of seed this spring through the county agent's office. This fall the county agent was sent by the associations to inspect next year's seed crop raised at the Puget Sound.

Among other activities of the agricultural department of the county this year were the promotion of the big Farm Union festival in which 80 farm organizations cooperated; also four demonstration tours for farmers of this county, and supervision of tours of visitors from other states who came here to inspect the agricultural and dairy industry.

ORGANIZE AT "Y" FOR WORLD SERVICE

Committee Is Formed to Promote Interest in Foreign Work of Y. M. C. A.

The World Service committee of the Appleton Y. M. C. A. was organized Monday night for the purpose of promoting foreign work. Prof. R. H. Hannum of Lawrence college, who was born and raised in India and was traveled in the Orient, is chairman of the committee. After a conference with A. W. Hanson, educational secretary of the foreign work department of the Y. M. C. A., the committee discussed the program and adopted a policy.

It was decided to place a large bulletin board in the mens' lobby in which will appear pictures and posters of Y. M. C. A. buildings throughout the world. BIG TICKET SALE ASSURED FOR FAUST

First reports from the committee in charge of the ticket sale for "Faust," the Goethe drama, which will be presented by Catholic Home association for six nights beginning next Sunday, indicate huge crowds at all the performances. About 5,000 tickets have been placed on sale and it is probable that a sufficient number will be sold to fill the hall at every performance.

Electrical equipment costing about $700 will be used to provide the electrical effects. The electrical displays will be the most spectacular ever shown on a stage in Appleton, according to J. F. Bannister, who is directing the production. "Faust," is one of the most dramatic plays ever written. It is difficult to produce, but long and strenuous rehearsals have fitted the big cast to do its work well.

PLENTY OF WORK
SO FAR THIS FALL
FOR LOCAL LABOR

All Plants but Wireworks Are Keeping Their Men Working
Full Time

Labor conditions in Appleton are unusually favorable considering that this is the time when numbers of men generally are out of work, according to a survey made by the chamber of commerce for the United States department of labor.

All industries are holding their help and giving them fulltime work except in the wire weaving industries where foreign competition has curtailed the orders somewhat.

Papermills are operating full time, according to the report, and have had but a very slight turnover among workers during the summer and fall. The supply of labor is about equal to the demand in most mills but some find large numbers of outside men applying for work.

KNITTING ORDERS SLACK
This is a slack time for the knitting mills but most of the plants are operating with smaller crews and giving them fulltime work. They will keep this up until the orders begin coming in again.

Woodworking industries are operating full time and find a large number of men seeking work. Machine companies are working full time but are not adding help. Their business has been fairly quiet.

Scolding Locks Hairpin Co., is one of the few plants reporting unusual production. The factory is being operated overtime and this situation may continue indefinitely.

BUILDERS KEEP WORKING
Most of the contractors still are continuing their work and holding their men. Builders find there is plenty of common labor but skilled craftsmen are quite scarce. Some expect to finish up their work for the season soon, which will leave a number of men without employment.

One encouraging sign is that few local men seem to be out of work. Those who apply for jobs either come from the farms or from other cities. Men are coming here from the west and south, some from long distances. They say the word is going the rounds that the Fox river valley is a land of plenty, with factories running full blast.

One wire weaving plant is operating at 60 per cent of capacity and another at 75 per cent. They alternate the short shifts, however, so all of the men put in a satisfactory number of hours each week and none is without employment. Inability of local plants to compete with foreign labor is given as the reason for the slackening of orders.

ON THE SCREEN

PEDRO DE CORDORA PLAYS LEADING ROLE IN "THE NEW MOON"

Them ost stupendous and dramatic picture of Norma Talmadge's long list of screen successes will be seen to-day and Thursday at the New Bijou theatre, when Joseph M. Schenck presents Miss Talmadge in "The New Moon."

A story of Russia—Russia and its men, women and children—old Russia with its people of warm hearts—Russia, where inner troubles are continually brooding and happiness is hard to find—a human story of human people who love and hate, cry and laugh—that is the story of "The New Moon."

It is more like a beautiful fairy tale than anything else. It is so vividly true that it smacks of unrealism. A beautiful Russian Princess disguises herself as a peasant girl, while she seeks protection from the anarchist, who are trying to rule the town. When the women of the country are ordered to register so as to be nationalized,

WERRENATH SINGS
PLEASING CONCERT

Big Audience Is Delighted with
First Number of Community
Series

Reinald Werrenrath pleased a large audience with his baritone concert in Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening. Mr. Werrenrath was the first artist to be brought here this year for the Community Artist series and he gave the course a good start.

It is probable Werrenrath was not in his best voice, but he was good enough to make the audience clamor for more of his music. He was forced to respond with encores after every group of songs and twice the applause forced him to sing two encores.

Werrenrath is a likeable chap, thoroughly human. He likes his little joke and there seemed to be a difference about him that pleased the audience.

The baritone was at his best in the songs which did not call for great power and histrionics. His voice Tuesday night was hardly equal to the strain of sustained power, but he put a lot of melody into the quieter compositions.

Mr. Werrenrath has a fine sense of the dramatic which he showed to excellent advantage in his singing of Danny Dever.

She leads them to revolt. She opens their eyes to the true meaning of Russian nationalization. They will become the wives of any man who wants them. Free love will govern the country. Marriage rites will cease to exist. The authorities discover the true character of the peasant girl who is leading the women to revolt and attempt to force her to register. Later, explanations follow, and like all fairy stories, the good people are rewarded and the bad ones punished.

WANTED TO MARRY
HIS FRIEND'S WIFE

Low Cody, film bad man de luxe, is one of the stars to be seen in John M. Stahl's latest production, "Husbands and Lovers," a First National picture tonight for the last time at the Elite theatre. While not exactly a "heavy," Cody gets things badly messed up by attempting to marry his friend's wife.

With Lewis S. Stone and Florence Vidor among the other celebrities on the list, this picture is giving promise of being an even greater success than Stahl's last two offerings, "Why Men Leave Home" and "The Dangerous Age." Of special interest to women, this comedy-drama is setting a new record both for attendance and for laughs at the Elite theatre.

THE GALETY GIRL
"The Galety Girl," Mary Philbin's spectacular new starring vehicle, a Universal-Jewel adaptation of I. A. R. Wylie's novel "The Inheritors," comes Thursday, Friday and Saturday to the Elite theatre. The new picture, the first in which Miss Philbin appears in the modern garb of a girl of today, follows her sensational successes in "Merry-Go-Round" and "Pool's Highway," in one of which she appeared as a Viennese girl, in the other as a wife of New York's old Bowery.

GIRLS WILL FIND DELIGHT IN NOVEL BY JOSLYN GRAY

"Black-eyed Susan" Established Author Among Leading Writers of Country

BY MATT ROEMER
In "Black-eyed Susan" Joslyn Gray has made a worthy addition to her growing works of fiction which rapidly is placing her to the lead of all writers of girl stories. Like all her previous works the novel points out a not too evident moral, but in a manner whose easy flowing narrative and description have nothing of the didactic. The faithful and detailed descriptions of women's styles in the late Victorian period which characterize Miss Gray's work will be of interest to most girls, and her characterizations and descriptions are accurate and enjoyable.

The development of independence of action in a New England girl who has been coddled and petted by her widowed mother until she is a spineless creature unable even to comb her own hair, furnishes an interesting plot which leads the heroine, Black-eyed Susan, from her sheltered home in the east to the wilds of Dakota. A spinster aunt starts Susan on her path of regeneration, but a distant relative by marriage who has established herself on a claim in the prairies is chiefly responsible for the great change we see taking place in the New England girl's character. The desire to help others is the incentive which accomplishes the New England aunt's purpose. Susan finds her Dakota relative, Mahaly Mumford, a huge woman, grim and forbidding to all about her, in possession of a large farm, which she herself runs with the assistance of two "Norskies," as she calls them, and a cross-eyed girl of Susan's age, who practically is a household slave. Seeing this poor creature abused and deeply wronged by her Aunt Mahaly, Susan asserts herself, and in helping her friend, finds her own character vastly altered for the better, and at the same time solves a family mystery which brings the divergent branches of the Carberry family once more together.

Gossip About Book People

THEATRE MAN ILL.
New York.—Edward E. Rice, 78, called the father of extravaganzas in the United States, is critically ill with a complication of diseases due to kidney trouble. It was learned today. Players he is credited with having given their first theatrical opportunities include Will H. Crane, Nat Goodwin, Henry E. Dixey, Lillian Russell, and Fay Templeton.

FORESWORE FAGS
New York.—When he gave $10,000 to Columbia university toward establishing a department of Chinese, the late Horace W. Carpenter explained that the amount represented what he had saved by refraining from the use of tobacco. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university, said today in opening an exhibition of Chinese art.

RISQUE ART ALLOWED
New York.—Well, art has won after a struggle. Earl Carroll, the producer, is now as free as the nude ladies in the three paintings in front of his theatre which got him and art into trouble.

Justices Hermann, Edwards and Murphy went into executive session with the pictures when the charges of "obscenity" against Carroll came up for trial Monday. After but three minutes of serious and private contemplation, they announced the decision: "The figures are simply nude." Inasmuch as everyone had known this in the first place, that was about all there was to it. Being a man who never likes to cause any trouble, Carroll's attorney moved for a dismissal and it was granted.

With the country wide interest in the present time in the study of criminology, the way of mental disorders, the publication of "UNMASKING OUR MINDS, with the subtitle Self Discovery Through Modern Psychology," is of special importance. David Seabury, the author, was born in Boston. His father engaged in earlier forms of mental therapeutics and he was reared in an atmosphere colored by James, Royce, and other leaders in applied psychology. After several years of study abroad he became consulting psychologist at Oliver Military Academy and later opened his New York office. Mr. Seabury is a popular lecturer as well as a writer. His book appears under the Boni & Liveright imprint.

MODERN BIBLE
London.—A new translation of the Old Testament, couched in modern English, by James Moffatt of Glasgow, is to be published next week by Hodder & Stoughton.

Dr. Moffatt has out adrift from archaic words and has not feared to use colloquial expressions. In the account of the deluge, Moffatt talks not of the ark, but of a "barge of express wood," and speaks of it as having cabins. He terms the Garden of Eden a "park" and calls Joseph vicar instead of governor of Egypt. He has placed in metrical form passages which are generally considered poetic.

Mr. Moffatt makes "the city of David" "Davidsburg."

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

THE RENAISSANCE OF WALT WHITMAN
We are just beginning to find out what kind of a fellow Walt Whitman was. He has been a myth for more than a generation but now the real Walt, as he lived in his poverty in Camden, is showing signs of emerging. If this keeps on lovers of "Leaves of Grass" will eventually have a full length portrait of the man himself that will square with the internal evidence of the man as found in his poetry.

For a decade or two after his death Whitman was more or less in eclipse. True, his poetry was studied in school after a fashion but it was done more or less apologetically. Almost always Whitman's work was measured by the yardstick of the New England group of poets. Such a poem as "Captain My Captain," that had rhyme and meter like the work of the conventional poets and that approximated as well, was called a great poem. "I wish I had never written the damned thing," said Walt himself to a friend one day. But many of the poems that are most characteristic of his untamed spirit were usually ignored or condemned. Students who read only the poems dished up for them at college received an impression of the man as a sort of member of the New England group who hadn't mastered his art. Instead of receiving the impression that he was the main tent and the rest of them the side-shows.

OUT IN OPEN NOW
But he is coming out in the open now. A year or two ago Grant Overton wrote a novel around him. A number of critical works have appeared about him the last few years in which he is treated without reference to the prevailing school of poetry of his age. A month or two ago Christopher Morley published a one-act play in which an attempt is made to present the real Walt, not a mythical figure, and a magazine is just now publishing a kind of second-hand diary of Whitman in which an intimate friend set down the day by day thoughts of Whitman as expressed in his conversation, much in the manner in which Boswell kept a diary about Samuel Johnson.

This last is perhaps the most important of all in giving us a real portrait of the real Walt Whitman. All the eussawords are there as he spoke them, and he was a most picturesque cuss. All his unconventional ideas are reported faithfully. He had a deep contempt for many of the New England poets who were the literary gods of the time and he does not mince words in saying so. He considered James Russell Lowell a fussy old woman. He was sometimes cranky, sometimes abusive; sometimes uncharitable, sometimes absurd, but also big hearted, bursting with original and startling ideas. It is all set down impartially and therein lies its value.

WAS NON-CONFORMIST
The outstanding feature about this new portrait that is slowly emerging in this diary and in the various other writings about Whitman of the past few years is that he was a born non-conformist. That of course is also the main feature of his poetry. He did not merely stage a revolt against rhyme and meter, his revolt went much deeper than that. He did not merely disagree with the manner in which most of the poets of his day wrote the disagreed still more strongly with the substance of their work, their ideas. Small wonder that he was very cordially hated by many of his fellow writers.

He didn't seem to care a hang what they thought of him. Of course, his punishment was neglect by the public, followed by poverty. But he stood up under that too like a man and he refused to be tamed into submission and into writing the kind of stuff that the public of that day wanted.

He is now recognized as a world figure, prophet as well as poet, and he was in danger of being idealized into a myth by his worshippers, suffering a fate that he would have disliked more than all the abuse that was once heaped upon him. But things like the diary are correcting that picture of him and are helping the real Walt Whitman to emerge.

CARELESS BUSINESS MEN LEAVE THEIR DOORS OPEN
Appleton police report that they have been finding a large number of doors open in the business district during the last few nights. Police make a report of these conditions each morning, and the occupants of the business houses are notified of it. Authorities deprecate the habit of leaving doors open as it exposes the city to the dangers from tramps and thieves.

Every New McCutcheon Novel Is Signal for Run on Book Shelves

George Barr McCutcheon, author of the beloved "Graustark" stories, has written another of this series entitled, "East of the Setting Sun." It is, of course the most popular book in Appleton Public Library at the present time. The "Graustark" books, including "Beverly of Graustark," "Graustark" and numerous others, are the fairy stories of our younger days minus the magic, but with princesses, handsome heroes and adventures all thrown in in good measure.

"Rugged Water" by Lincoln, "The Home-Ataker" by Dorothy Canfield and "Travels in Alaska" by Muir are three other books that the public has favored recently, according to reports from the library.

"Rose of the World" by Kathleen Norris, and "Butterfly," another Norris volume issued before "Rose of the World," were two novels that were unusually popular during the last week. "Butterfly" made its debut as a motion picture in Appleton a short time ago and the librarians say that it is because of this that the book has increased in popularity.

In the children's department L. F. Perkins' "Twin" books, including "The Cave Twins," "The Belgian Twins," "The Spartan Twins," "The Swiss Twins," and "The Puritan Twins," were very popular. F. G. Carpenter's geographical readers also had a good

Where Youth is a Frame of Mind

The man who said "Age is a matter of relativity" must have lived in Florida. Somehow an elderly person doesn't seem as old here as does one of the same age in other parts of the country.

Some say the exhilarating clime keeps them young, some say the year round sports. Whatever be the cause, the spirit of Youth is a custom here; it seems contagious; it becomes a state of mind.

You can join the carefree throng in this happy land—its beauties are not restricted to the favored few. All are welcome. Living expenses need not exceed your accustomed standard.

Our beautiful booklet, "Florida," contains many valuable pointers. Write for it.

New High Gasoline Consumption Record

THE Bureau of Mines (Washington, D.C.) places the domestic consumption of gasoline for August, 1924, at 819,467,892 gallons, an increase over July consumption of 22,001,302 gallons and the highest monthly consumption of gasoline ever reached in the United States.

Notwithstanding this unusual demand, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to keep the motorist of the Middle West constantly supplied with gasoline. This is the direct result of strict economy in production and the uninterrupted operation of a modern system of distribution.

The new high gasoline consumption record of August tells of hundreds of small business organizations made efficient by means of the automobile and an abundance of standard quality gasoline. It tells of thousands of families who have enjoyed healthful outings at minimum cost. It tells of hundreds of thousands of city children benefited by country air, because motor transportation carried them into open spaces at a trifling charge.

Giving people what they want, at a price they easily can afford to pay, is in itself a valuable service. This service is rendered to society by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Few of the hundreds of thousands of people who profit daily by the abundance and the wide distribution of gasoline, consider the intricate industrial problems solved before this service could be rendered. They are apt to think of gasoline as yielded freely by nature; a generous, unceasing gift to man.

On the contrary, no matter how freely crude oil is produced by nature, without the aid of science it does not yield the tremendous quantities of gasoline needed to supply the demand.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by originating processes which vastly increase the percentage of gasoline recovered from crude oil, serves mankind by helping to keep the supply equal to the demand. By devising a comprehensive distribution system and maintaining it in the face of every obstacle, this Company is able to make gasoline available to millions who could not afford to have the fuel shipped to them individually. Gasoline is as accessible to the farmers of the Middle West as it is to the city dweller.

Chicago — Reserve strength may determine whether Chicago will defeat Wisconsin and win the undisputed Western conference football championship, its first since 1918, in the feature game here of the conference finale this week.

The Maroon lineup backs which pounced through Illinois will counter stiff opposition in the Badger forward wall composed of veterans. Chicago may spring an aerial attack, since Wisconsin has shown a weak defense against forward passes throughout the season.

The heart of the Maroon offense will be borne by Harry Thomas, Francis Kervein, Marks and McCarthy. Augmenting them will be one of the strongest lines in the conference and an abundance of well groomed substitutes.

Added incentive to efforts for a victory will be given by the fact that the fray will mark the last appearance in a Maroon uniform of Captain Franklin Gowdy, Thomas, Joe Ponder, Harry Harrison Barnes and Phil Barto. Their greatest desire will be to end their collegiate gridiron careers with a Big Ten championship. The Maroon brothers, McAndrew, backfield sprinter, McGovern, back, and Larson, quarterback, will be Badgers' best bids for gains and scores.

A capacity crowd will fill Chicago's new Grant park stadium where Northwestern will offer opposition to Notre Dame's national championship aspirations. With every available seat engaged, only 2,000 standing room spaces will be offered before the game. The Purple will have a team keyed to a high pitch and more confident of itself than at any point during the season as a result of the showing made in the 3 to 0 game with Chicago. Passes may be Michigan's best of defense against Iowa, whose strong forward wall presents a likelihood of difficulty in gaining through it or skirting its flanks. The Hawkeyes will present the results of two weeks of practice in opposition to Michigan's hopes for championship consideration based on a Wolverine victory and a Chicago defeat.

Both Indiana and Purdue will spring special formations in their grudge tilt at Lafayette. Secret practice at both camps will continue until kickoff time.

When Minnesota, in the linealight as the conqueror of Illinois, engages Vanderbilt of Nashville, Tenn., in the only Midwest sectional fray, it will have over-confidence to overcome as well as its southern opponent. Prospects are that all the regulars with the possible exception of Lühberg, will take the field.

CAPACITY CROWDS
ARE EXPECTED AT EASTERN BATTLES

Fifteen Thousand Eager Fans
Turned Away From Syracuse Gates

By Associated Press
New York—Capacity crowds are expected to throng to college gridiron battles this weekend, with the largest at Yale's glacial bowl in New Haven, where more than 70,000 can be accommodated. At Syracuse more than 15,000 have failed to obtain reservations for the Colgate game and at Philadelphia Rutgers and Bucknell are expected to meet in an overflowing stadium.

Harvard will be represented at the bowl in greater array and cheers will be shouted with even more fervor than in past years. The Crimson is the under dog, for the Fisher-coached machine appears to have been damaged irreparably. First Dartmouth, then Princeton, then Brown, conquered the over-pressed defenders at Soldier's field.

Harvard will oppose Yale with more spirit than power, according to campus reports. Eleven men will be there but a squad of 46 with 22 injured, many carrying crutches and canes, can hardly be expected to present its mightiest front.

Yale is prepared for brilliant accomplishments with promises that the same team which Princeton found so powerful will appear in the last defense of the bowl.

Until their downfall at the hands of the West Virginians, the Syracuseans were on their way to a membership in the elite of the eastern season. The Lehigh-Lafayette clash at Easton, Pa., is the third feature on the eastern program with Lehigh the favorite, as the result of tying Princeton, 0 to 0, and Rutgers, 13 to 13.

Rutgers meets Bucknell at Philadelphia and is expected to end its season undefeated, although the Pennsylvania will have a team that has shown power and has lost only one game, that to Lafayette, 21 to 3.

Orange Squad Loses
Three Regulars On
Eve Of Oshkosh Tilt

Coach Jule Kevin Tries Out Second Stringers to Replace Steenis, Frazer and Johnston

Three new faces will appear in Appleton high school's starting lineup against Oshkosh here Saturday, but who will be the new men as yet have been decided. Frazer, Johnston and Steenis are laid up with injuries and will be unable to play Saturday. Frazer and Steenis were crippled in the East Green Bay game last week while Johnston had his face badly smashed up in scrimmage.

Coach Jule Kevin has been trying Guy Barlow's second stringers in the vacant places but probably will not arrive at a definite choice until Friday. The injured men probably will be back in harness for the final game on their schedule with Marinette on Tuesday.

The drill grounds used by the Orange gridders are in very bad shape, being covered with mud and slush, but the youngsters have been turning out regularly despite this obstacle. The East Green Bay contest developed a strong aerial attack and Kevin is spending much of his time in perfecting this phase still further. Courtney and Clippie showed up as an excellent passing machine, although Heble and one of two of the other men also looked good at the receiving end. Passes at Green Bay Saturday gained from 20 to 25 yards and most of those attempted were successful.

Courtney's generalship was fully as good as Rowley's had been when he played quarterback, and probably he will keep that position Saturday at least.

The Oshkosh game is expected to be a hard battle but is looked upon as preparation for the Marinette contest. The Turkey day tilt will be in the nature of a homecoming event to which hundreds of alumni have been invited. Special arrangements will be made for the sale of tickets for the Marinette game. The junior class is in charge of the distribution and arrangements. Tickets will be offered for sale at Bellings drugstore and at the high school office, while the usual plan is being followed in preparation for the Oshkosh game.

BOARD INTERESTED IN FIRST REPORT OF COUNTY NURSE

631 Children Out of 1,000 Examined Have Physical Defects, Nurse Says

In submitting her first annual report to the county board of supervisors, Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, aroused the interest of the supervisors. A number of questions were asked regarding the program of her work and the effect of her labors.

Miss Klein has been on the ground here only two months. Since the opening of schools she has visited 40 schools and examined 1,000 children. Among the children examined there were 631 with physical defects. They were classified as follows: A total of 414 had defective teeth, 225 had enlarged tonsils, 55 had defective vision, 17 had defective hearing, 42 had defective breathing and 18 had foot trouble.

In addition Miss Klein made 71 calls at homes of parents to confer with them regarding the health of their children. Four of the schools visited had contagion and special efforts were made to check it. One of the most common faults found was the neglect of teeth in children. An arrangement was made for the benefit of these pupils who could not afford to buy tooth brushes whereby tooth brushes were purchased in large lots and sold to the pupils at 5 cents each. Parents are asked to attend school when the nurse is visiting in that community in order that they may be present when the inspections are made.

CORRECT EATING HABITS

Supervisor John Tracy of Appleton inquired whether a number of the physical defects were not due to improper nourishment. Miss Klein said this was true and told what had been done in the way of encouraging a corrective diet. A number of schools have adopted the plan of warm lunches at which they serve vegetable soup. Many children have acquired a dislike for some of the foods they need most and parents have without realizing the consequences failed to correct these bad habits in eating, Miss Klein said.

Mr. Tracy then uttered an invective against those farmers who for the sake of a few dollars more a month haul most of their milk to the cheese factory and allow their children no milk except for coffee and thus deprive them of the proper nourishment a child needs.

CHECK UP ON ADVICE

Supervisor William Beck of Seymour inquired of Miss Klein the percentage of parents who heed the warnings and advice of the county nurse regarding their children. Miss Klein said she was unable to answer that question at this time for she had not been in the county long enough to make a careful check on all the children examined.

Giving of prizes by the school boards to those children who make the best efforts in guarding their health was suggested by Supervisor A. M. McCone of Deer Creek. The nurse said that while no prizes had been offered, pupils of some schools are competing in the observance of health rules, and that the contests are arousing a great deal of interest among the children.

Experiments Reveal New Source For Newsprint Paper

The pulp paper industry promises to be revolutionized through experiments now being carried on by the E. I. Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, according to officials of the institution. The laboratory has worked out processes by which it is claimed print paper of good quality can be manufactured from black gum wood.

It is declared that under the new process, nine tenths of a cord of gum wood produces one ton of paper, compared with 1.2 cords of spruce required to produce a ton of newsprint by the usual processes. Similar results have been obtained with poplar and birch, it is said.

"This new product and the process by which it is made, still are in the experimental stage," declares a statement by laboratory officials. "Nevertheless, the high yield and excellent natural color of the pulp gives promise of such broad-based woods as aspen, birch, beech, maple, black and tulip gum and cottonwood may be used profitably in the manufacture of newsprint to supplement the rapidly diminishing supply of spruce, which is at present practically the only species considered suitable for newsprint."

"These broadleaf woods are widely distributed, constitute a large proportion of the present stand of growing timber, show rapid growth and usually reproduce easily. Many of them have only limited uses as lumber, hence their utilization for pulp would be an important advance toward conserving the timber supply."

MARSHAL FOCH SENDS HIS PICTURE TO STATE LEGION

Charles Emden, manager of the Conway hotel and president of the Wisconsin division of the Greeters of America, was nominated for reelection to the same office at a meeting of the Greeters in Fond du Lac Saturday, Samuel Meyer of Milwaukee, secretary and treasurer, was nominated for reelection also.

Other persons nominated for office at this meeting were: First vice president, Al Paul of Milwaukee; second vice president, Roy Roe of Neenah; third vice president, Fred Schroeder of Milwaukee. Nominations for the board of directors also were made. Officers will be elected at the next regular meeting.

SEE CLOSER RELATION OF STUDENTS AND ALUMNI

The appointment of Andrew A. Anderson as full time secretary of the Lawrence Alumni association, the expense of whose office is borne equally by the alumni and college, will result in the long-sought cooperation between the students and alumni, it is believed.

Mr. Anderson will represent the alumni to the students, and as a part of his work will edit the alumni paper, form new alumni clubs, and see that the old clubs are brought into closer contact with the Alma Mater.

He graduated from Lawrence in 1902, and for a year after graduation acted as registrar and treasurer of the college.

800 AT DAD AND SON BANQUET AT TWO RIVERS

Joseph E. Dennison, formerly boys' work secretary of the Appleton Y. M. C. A., is making a decided success of boys' work at Two Rivers. Up until a year ago Two Rivers was without any kind of boys' work. At that time the Two Rivers Boys' work association was formed and Mr. Dennison became its secretary. The climax of the year's program was a Father and Son banquet Friday evening at which 800 fathers and sons were present. Mayor H. O. Gowran presided and A. C. Backus of Milwaukee, well-known boys' worker, was the principal speaker. Mr. Dennison also spoke. Recently the association completed a campaign for $12,000 to further its work.

Harry Schommer, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Schommer, 381 Seventh st., returned to his home after spending four weeks at St. Elizabeth hospital, where he had submitted to an operation for appendicitis.

Evan Johnston of Eau Claire, visited Appleton friends over the week end.
